Insights

Using the independent services of behavioural science experts MindAlpha, a pilot study in a large NHS Trust revealed:

- Phase 1 - Factors related to self-awareness and self-care rose fastest.
- Phase 2 - Factors related to empowering and enabling others saw the strongest gains.
- Phase 3 - Leadership related factors were the largest drivers of gains.
- Overall - These patterns mirror the content of the programme which suggests that the principal driver of gains was the learning from the programme.
